Death of Rev. J. L. Reynolds, D. D. The following notice of the death of Rev. Dr. Reynolds will be read with painful interest by many people in Richmond:

The announcement in our telegraphic olumns of the death of this distinguished scholar and divine will be startling and painful tidings to our readers, without distinction of class or sect. Very few men have been more honored and beloved in tion for all that marks the highest type of the Christian gentleman.

At a comparatively recent period Dr. Reynolds was transferred, in accordance with his own desire, to the Chair of Moral Philosophy, in which he continued until the glory departed from the college, and, like his honorable colleagues, he was compelled to leave it in the hands of the spoiler. After a year of much-needed rest he accepted the professorship of Latin in Furman University, at Greenville, and here has closed so suddenly his most valuable life. The particular circumstances of his death have not yet reached us, but we are inform- depôts of the Richmond and Petersburg ed that he had recently appeared to enjoy unusually good health. Dr. Reynolds was one of the most ac complished scholars of our State, and a preacher of marked ability. As a writer e was singularly graceful and beautiful. In the Baptist denomination he was recognized as one of the foremost men, and his brethren delighted to do him honor. The urbanity of his manners and the kindness of his heart won the love of all with whom he associated, and these traits were now here more manifest than in company with the lowly and illiterate. We are sure that we utter the sentiment of the old faculty and students of the South Carolina College, and, besides, of a multitude of good men and women throughout the State, when we say that a deplorable loss has befallen all our religious and educational interests in the death of Dr. Rey-

NOWLAN & Co.'s elegant establishment, corner Main and Tenth streets, on Saturday confirmed the wide-spread reputation they have of keeping a very fine and well-selected stock of jew elegant Solitaire Diamond Ear-Drops and Finger-Rings, then some fine Gold Opera, Guard, Leontine, and Roman Neck-Chains; afterwards the prettiest fine Gold Stone-Cameo Sleeve- and Bosom-Buttons; also, Scarf-Pins and Rings of Stone-Cameo, besides sets of fine Jewelry of every description and style. These gentlemen have also a large and handsome assortment of sterling silver

Those in want of bandsome as well as usefu Christmas presents should give Messrs. NOWLAN & Co. a call. Mr. ROBERT E. MACOMBER, the junior member of the firm, as well as Mr. THOMAS NOW-LAN, will always take pleasure in showing you their pains will be spared, and not a little will be stock, and with such obliging salesmen you will be sure to purchase. Their stock of fine Gold Watches is very large.

MERRY CHRISTMAS TO ALL. " Merry Christmas to all !" the snow-bird said. As he happily hopped around; If I were wanting a suit of clothes I'd tell you the place I've found. I'd get my clothes at A. SAKS & Co.'s

For these days of December frost;

So strong and stout they will hardly wear out,

And it's strange how little they cost."

Merry Christmas to all!" the gentleman said, As he looked on his little boys, Who were getting ready for Christmas time And making a jolly noise. I'll get them an overcoat aplece. And a suit of clothes to boot;

There's no place at all like that of A. SAKS & Co.' To purchase a nice new suit." Merry Christmas to all!" the school-boy said, With a bouncing glad hurrah; Just think of the bargains at A. SAKS & Co.'8-The biggest you ever saw. To make this Christmas merry for me,

Just buy, if you please, such presents as these

And merry for all school-boys,

That you get of A. SAKS & Co."

Buy your Presents for the boy. Buy your Presents for the boy's father. Buy your Presents for the boy's big brother. Buy your Presents for all your male friends. A. SAKS & Co., the leading Clothiesr.
